Throughout the year 2011, we learn that three ordinary men from different parts of the world were let in on the biggest secret of all time, at least on this planet. Their dilemma was whether to tell what they've learned from Aliens. Knowing that they'd risk sounding insane, risk losing their jobs, wives, and families. Eventually they all told but by the time everyone realizes they were telling the truth, it may be too late to salvage even one of them. But with the help of a curious scientist, a beautiful professor and a young priest, the pieces of this puzzle will come together in a way that gives choices of action that may direct the future of all mankind. Is the year 2012 the end of things as we know it? Or is it just another beginning as predicted in many religions.

"But if there is no God then we have always been on our own. If this is true, did our ancestors deliberately lie? I don't think so. The authors of the Bible, the Koran and the Torah were intelligent men of great faith and truly believed in a supreme being, a heavenly realm and the miracles of which they wrote. They were exceptionally good men with selfless good intentions. But even good men can be misled and enslaved to a belief."
