Reparations I: The Attorneys K. Anderson Yancy

Two African-American attorneys, best friends, find themselves opposing council in the reparations legal battle for the African-American Holocaust - over 400 years of slavery, Jim Crowe apartheid, and myriad forms of discrimination from the United States - while navigating the US legal system and wrestling with the resulting personal turbulences in their lives. In this full cast audio drama a multitude of reparations battles and issues going on in the US including White, African and African-American, Jewish, Chinese, Muslim, Mexican, and Native American slavery; illegal Italian-American&German-American WWII internment; Hawaiian reparations; two US Mexican-American ethnic cleansings; Guam reparations; illegal US medical experimentation and biological warfare tests on its citizens; and so much more.

With a length of 15.5 hours, it's as long as a full run of a 22-week television series, less commercials, and covers a year as the two attorneys move towards the trial date.
