Universal Shooter is a series of illustrated articles and pamphlets intended to explore the universal aspects of the subject named. It is an informational series aimed at new shooters, to give them ideas for stretching the potential of firearms, calibers, field craft, and equipment, with emphasis on field expedient methodology that allows the shooter to continue shooting under a wide variety of circumstances. The series covers the use of tools and methods unknown to those new to the shooting art and which may be of interest to long practitioners of the sport, with emphasis on survival strategies.

This volume covers the universality and characteristics of the .308 Winchester cartridge, 7.62 NATO and cartridges parented by them; as well as, reloading, picking a survival rifle, checking the mechanism and twist or your rifle, loading smokeless cartridges with black powder, making your own black powder and much more.
